

ANGELO SANTABARBARA

inspires family, friends and colleagues with his devotion to helping people and enriching his community. His parents were Italian immigrants who taught him that if he worked hard, success would follow.

After graduating from Schalmont High School in 1990, Angelo served in the United States Army Reserves and earned a Bachelor of Science degree from SUNY Albany. He is now a Professional Engineer and holds public office as a Schenectady County Legislator.

Angelo is the owner and founder of the Santabarbara Cheese Company, which donates all profits to children's charities. As an Schalmont High School Alumnus, he is a frequent speaker and mentor for high school students, colleges and institutions through various volunteer programs and volunteers as a youth soccer coach. He is also the founder of the Santabarbara Scholarship Award, created for graduating seniors pursuing a degree in engineering.

In 2010, Angelo was inducted into the Schalmont High School Wall of Distinction in his hometown of Rotterdam.
